ant to-day. The duliness noticed for the last few days continues, and prices are slightly depressed. At the Second Board there was rather more activity, but the tendency of quotations was still downward. Midsammer apathy appears to be setting in earlier than usual, and there is a disposition among operators to close up their lines preparatory to their usual Summer jaunts. This is more observable among outside operators than among the regular street jobbers. The impression appears to be quite general that a dull season of a month or two is impending, but we have seen in our experi-ence very sudden changes in the Stock market, which have put all calculations at defiance. The Western shares were infected by the beaviness in Galena, which fell off under the small traffic of the first week. Illinois

Central had a special cause of weakness in the apprebension of a new call on the stock to provide means for the payment of the remaining Freeland Bonds falling due in September. It appears that the new issue of bonds does not meet with success, and the proba-bility is strong that a stock call must be resorted to. It appears somewhat strange that with such a buoyant market for railroad boads as we have had for some time past, that the Eight P cent bonds of this Company due in 1865, and secured by the absolute pledge of the uncalled capital of the Company, upon which 75 $ cent has already been paid, cannot be sold to the extent of $1,500,000 at par. The security certainly is abundant, the money to be received wipes out debt of an equal amount, and the new bonds are receivable in syment for calls upon the stock. We think about $3,000,000 can yet be called. Pacific Mail was heavy nd sold at 911 against 921 yesterday. Dividents were paid on 20 shares to-day, making an aggregate of 988 stares over the authorized capital. In the Bond in rket the feeling was much stronger that in the share lists. Missouris were not active, but advanced to 841. The Sub-Treasurer has received notice of the $100,000 draft for the Two P cent fund due this State, but the war-ran has not yet been received here, as it needs the indersement of one of the Commissioners of the State, who is at the West. The other State stocks were firmly held. Railroad bonds were not active but strong. The business is restricted by the small amounts offer ing. The California steamer brings nearly $1,300,000 in gold, which will supply the foreign drain of bars. The markst in San Francisco for merchandise had been quite active, but prices had generally a downward tenacy. The remittances from the interior had been good. The Shipping List says:

Money promises to be quite easy for the steamer of Monday, and engagements will probably be met with readiness. The rates are about 24 cent on satisfactory collateral or names. We hear of not thing doing in real exists forms. Gold bars will be started for this steamer, the quantity new on hand being quite small. For the last week there has been an active requirement for export to China, and the price advanced before the clearance of the Aurifors for Hong Kong to 270. The New-Orleans Picayane, of the 9th, says of the money market thus:

"The demand for secommodation was quite restricted at most of the Esnas this morning, and there was but little first-class paper to be found in the hands of brokers. Rates of discount were nominally unchanged, but the movement evidently inclined in favor of borrowers. Stocks and bonds continued at a stand, and we did not hear of a transaction in any class of securities. The languor heretofore noticed as a characteristic of the Excharge market still increases and the movement for the day includes no round amounts of either foreign or domestic. Officeings of all classes of hills are ntill exceedingly limited, but they ove simple for the demand which cannot be considered better than nominal."

The Piqua (O.) Register has the following in rela-lation to the crops:

"Never before have we noticed so fair a prospect for a bounti-ful crop as the face of the earth presents at this writing. During the present week we have been blessed with several fine show-ers, which have enlivened the whoie vegratable kingdom that is just about hudding forth to be matured. The wheat fields are already assuming a gelden hue, indicating to the husbandman a much earlier harvest than usual, as well as a rich reward for his toil. In truth, every production of the earth promises much more than a full crop. First, The number of acress under culti-vation is much larger than heretofore. Second, The Winter and Spring have been uncertaily favorable to the advancement of cvery species of crops: thus, at this date of the season we must necessarily infer that we shall have shundant harvests in the year like.) The wheat in this section promises an unprecedented yield."

The Runkers' Magnetine for the present mouth con-

The Bankers' Magazine for the present mouth contains an article entitled "A Decade of the Gold Plethora," from the pen of a gentleman of this city. from which it appears that the annual product of the precious metals has increased from ninety-five millions of dollars in 1849, to two hundred and sixty-four millions in 1859. Within the last ten years there has been added to the stock of the precious metals in existence, twenty-four hundred millions of dollars. The amount of the precious metals now in existence is esamount of the precious metals now in existence is estimated by the writer to be eleven thousand millions of dollars, of which six thousand consists of silver, and the remainder in gold. The amount of the precious metals obtained from the surface and bowels of the earth, from the commencement of the Christian era to the close of 1859, the writer estimates to be sixteen thousand millions of dollars, of which nine thousand consisted of gold, and the remainder of silver. The price of gold, notwithstanding the increased supply, has remained unchanged for upward of one hundred and fifty years. Whether, in view of the developments which are going on in Africa, South America, and other countries of the globe, the product of the precious metals will attain, at the expiration of the next decade, to a million of dollars daily, and will next decade, to a million of dollars da ly, and will consequently decline in price, are questions which, in the opinion of the writer of the article, can be best de-

In relation to the movement in Cotton, Wm. P. Wright & Co.'s Circular says:

Receipts are still in excess of the corresponding period of last year. The excess new amounts to 700,000 hales, and will be slightly insteased again next week. The receipts at the ports intely have been at the expense of interior stocks. There was on the lat June this year only 48,000 bales held in the interior towns, against to,000 on the lat June and year.

Experts to Great Eritain and France are large this week, and more then in the corresponding week last year. By tolograph for a week later, we find that for next week the expert will probably be no more than in the same week last season.

Chor.—The eccounts from the South received during the past week, are on the whole favorable. The continued drouth is doing some injury on the high rotton lands, but benefitting the low and bettom lands. The weather has become accessively hot at the South, and highly favorable for the growth of the plant.

Albany Live Stock Market

Albuny Live Stock Market.

[Reported for Tax Nxw-York Tribursa]

When Albany, June 11, 1990.

CATTLE—Another sorry market-day for the drovers, there being over 4, 60 head on sale this morning. Price have fill en office at the fill of the price in the fill of the price in the fill of the cattle disease in Massichusetts. The New Yorkers are buying freely, but at very low figures. The quality of the beaves offered this week is first rate, Kentucky sending ever 600 head of as fine steers as were ever rided in any country, yet of all this number of extra and premium, not a single drove would bring $6. $\phi$ h. live weight. The best direct soil to-day for $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled the $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft, while at treat where soiled to be tween $1000 ft, while at treat the pick were soiled to $1000 ft. The best discussed to which makes the price same as last Spring, $1000.

Fig. 16, 1778 have ugain advanced # 10 P car between Boffalo and New-York, which makes the price same as last Spring, $835. This, in these bad markets, makes the drovers compliant bitterly. The rates between this point and New-York remain without thangs, $10 P car for Western catle and $2 P car for State via the Hudson River Railroad and $1 P head on the Propellers. CITY ITEMS.

Bull's HEAD-New-York Cattle Market, Tuesday, June 12.—There were between 3,400 and 3,500 head of bullocks entered upon the list to-day, to be sold during Tuesday and Wednesday. This is some 300 hard less than the number sold last week, and generally speaking the bullocks are of a lighter grade, though still very good, fair retail butchers' stock. The market is not as good on the average as it was last week—the range of prices is 71 # 91c. a pound for the net weight of beef, with very few sales at either extreme. In fact just as good beef cattle as we desire for family use have been sold to-day at 9c., and that is about the top price that butchers are willing to pay, though some do give a little higher for very choice animals; but sellers are obliged in almost all cases to concede to the buyers in their estimation of weight; and it is the general opinion of the broken and drovers that the market is not as good for them as it was last Tuesday, and that was considered very dall. This, however, is duller-large buyers being indisposed to offer as much as they did lust week, and appear quite indifferent about buying at all; and many small buyers will wait till to-morrow, expecting better bargains. There will be plenty of cattle for sale on Wednesday, and no one expects prices to range any higher. There is now no scarcity of good healthy beef cattle, fed upon corn and hay; and if any one with such before him, chooses to run the risk of diseased distillery-fed bullocks, he has the chance. For our own part, we will not buy the beef of any animal fed in a distillery, while pleuro-pneumonia pravails through the country; for it is a disease which, if not originated in distillery stables, has not been out of those in this vicinity for a dozen years; and it has probably affected every pound of swill-fed meat and milk made in this city, Brooklyn, and Williamsburgh, during that time, while the stock taken from these stables have carried the infection to the country. That it is not so fatal there, is because the air is purer.

AN EVENING WITH POETICAL CELEBRITIES.-At eight o'clock on Monday evening twenty-one people were sitting in Hope Chapel, dreary, lagabrious, thinking more of the chapel than of hope. At eight o'clock and fifteen minutes the number had increased to thirty three. There was indeed at one moment a prospect that it would reach thirty-five; but as two people came in two others west out, and their sigh of relief floated back on the evening breeze. These thirty-three sad-faced individuals were waiting for the con-mencement of Miss Mary Agnes Cameron's Evening With Poetical Celebrities"-for by that name was her entertainment designated. There were to be readings, recitations, boudoir theatricals, music vocal and music instrumental. As assistants, the distinguished elecutionist" was to have Professor G. Washburne Morgan, Dr. Chas. Alexander Guilmette. Mr. J. E. Nagle, and "a young lady of this city."

Eight o'clock and fifteen minutes. A barrel organ on the sidewalk outside was playing, "stride la vampa," and the melancholy tones of that well-known air added a shade to the despening gloom settling upon Hope Chapel within. The stragglers there sitting felt like prisoners; an irresistible fascination held them; they heard the rourn g of Broadway as its tide rushed past the doors, and they wondered if they should ever again be borne on its restless bosom, or whether they should grow gray and old and feeble, and then forgot ten die, still kept within that somber tomb, Hope Chapel. A child whom an inhuman mother had taken with her yawned aloud. It was one of those dismal yawns, such as often part the jaws of early adolescence when a New-England country prayermeeting binds the young body in its rusty Strong men shuddered when they heard that hollow sound; but the echoes of Hope Chapel rejoiced greatly.

Eight o'clock and seventeen minutes. A man fiitted across the stage from one side room to the other, minutes. Dr. Chas. Alexander Guilmette ascended from the auditorium-he was not included in the count-and disappeared within the antechamber. It looked as if the Evening With Poetical Celebrities was about to commence. Eight o'clock and twenty minutes. Miss Mary Agres Cameron came forward to apologize. The gentlemen-she cusphasized the substantive-whom she had expected to assist had disappointed her. There would be no music. She would rend, and those who had paid for their tickets-here the thirty-three smiled confusedly among themselves-might reclaim their morey if they chose.

Then Miss Cameron read. When we left, she had concluded one part of "The Wife's Tragedy," and at the same rate of progress, she must have arrived at the end of her labors not long after midnight. They who left Hope Chapel behind them when the Wife's Tragedy was still undone, felt like cowards flying from a falling friend; yet it was pleasant to see the world again, and when they reached the street they laughed as men will who have escaped from an oppressive dream. One hardly dares to think how many of the thirty-three remained to the end.

Under the circumstances, any attempt to criticise the Poetical Evening would be futile. "Readings" are Artesian Bores. If a woman reads simply in a pleasing etyle, her performance is a mild bore; if she reads dramatically, and, as it is called, with "fire," it is a dreadful bore. The profession certainly does not seem remonerative. Why do so many go into it? Can adersity and a cold public not subdue them?

As to the disappointing vocalist and planist, it seems probable that their non-interference with the harmony of the occasion may have been not wholly unconnected with pecuniary considerations. They were not absolutely absent. One of them certainly was there. We have no right to tell him that he ought to have been magnanimous. If people will have a private opinion about it, why, that is their own affair.

One good result may follow this dismal failure. A few dozen young women may be kept from displaying weak elecution at fifty cents a ticket. PALACE GARDEN.—German lager-beer gardens have long been an institution well known in the Bowery and many of its side streets. It is here that the Tenton with his wife and numerous family delights to sip congenial lager beneath evergreen trees, surrounded by f ut tains and flowers, while the harmonious music of a brass band breaks gently upon his ear. So popular have these gardens become, and so extensively patronized by our citizens—including many who are "natives and to the manor born'-that the establishment of such places of resort, rejuvenation, and refreshment on a larger and more liberal scale, was excuestly demanded by the public. The experiment was tried last season by Mr. C. V. De Forest, who obtained possession of the vacant ground in Fourteenth street, near Sixth avenue, now known as Palace Garden, and converted it into a place of pleasure and promenade. He gave the public good music, vocal and instrumental, and refreshments meant to refresh not sicken the partaker thereof. His efforts were crowned with such pecuniary success that this season he has made still more extensive arrangements for pleasing his visitors, and on Monday evening opened his doors to the eager crowd. Palace Garden, in its present condition, probably cannot be excelled in this country, certainly not in this city, as a beautiful evening promenade. A large, open garden is filled with trees, shrubs, and flowers tastefully arranged around and among which run divers winding raths wide enough to admit of promenade. At each turn the visitor encounters some new and pleasing feature; here a fountain, there a brilliant transparency, and again a "happy family" of lively monkeys, opos-sums, guinea pigs, &c. Scattered through the Garden are many large and pleasing transparencies, surmount-ed with brilliant lamps of varied hues. On the east side of the Garden is an open building, arranged with comfortable tables and seats, which will be very convenient in case of a shower. On the west side is the concert saloon and ball room, elegantly trimmed with flowers and evergreens, nice to look at and tender to the touch. Among this display of lamps and trees and flowers and tables and fountains and seats dart colored entlemen, eager and willing to serve all customers, each one of whom knows the meaning of that expres-sive German phrase "Zwei lager." Ice creams, strawberries, and cakes, possessed of various flavors, all ex-ceedingly nice and indigestible, are served up per or-der. On the opening night there was, in addition to the other attractions, a magnificent display of fireworks, sandwiched with good instrumental music, under the direction of F. Ficker. No doubt Palace Garden will be a success, as was evidenced by a delighted crowd on Monday night, and Mr. De Forest is entitled to a liberal encouragement for the manner in which he as supplied a long-needed institution.

EXCISE COMMISSIONERS,-The Board met Tuesday morning, and granted 20 licenses at $30 each. A resolution was adopted to request the Board of Supervisors to furnish the counsel of the Excise Beard with an iron safe, for the preservation of the legal documents thereof.

DEATH FROM FRIGHT .- Coroner Schirmer held an nquest vesterday upon the body of Augusta P. Woodhouse, aged 33. She was in Brownsville, Texas, at the time of the Cortina croubles, and her nerves were so affected by the appearance of the troops that she died of fright. Her body was brought here for interment in Schoharie County, her place of nativity.

BURNED,-Catharine Murray, aged two years, died at the New-York Hospital on Toesday. Her mother, who is in the Hospital awaiting the result of her own njuries, became intoxicated on Sunday evening. Approaching the stove, her dress was fired, and she was everely burned. From her dress, the flames were communicated to that of her daughter.

ACCIDENT TO THE CITY MARSHAL,-Col. Burnham. the Mayor's Marshal, who looks after the cartmen of the city, fell a victim himself to the recklessness of the butcher boys vesterday. He was driving down Mo-Dougal street in a carriage, and was followed closely y a racing butcher's cart, which, coming in violent collision with his vehicle, he was thrown to the ground. His back and left arm were considerably injured, so that he will be unable to attend to the duties of his office for several days.

RECOVERY OF STOLEN SILVER WARE .- About $3,000 worth of silver ware was recovered yesterday by officers Mason and Lossing of the City Hall Police, at Newark, from a man giving his name as S. H. Black, who, it is believed, stole it from Moses S. Friend of No. 25 Howard street. The goods were kept by the police as evidence, and the man upon whom they were found, was committed as a receiver of stolen goods, there be ing no evidence of theft directly chargable against him. MINOR CITY ITEMS.—The work of preparing the MILITARY EXCURSION .- Company A of the Twentythird Regiment National Guards, under command of third Regiment National Guards, under command of Brevet Col. Jacob Raynor, celebrated their Thirty-fifth Anniversary yesterday by an excursion to Orange, N. J. The corps assembled at their armory in the morning at So'clock, and thence, headed by a fine band, proceeded to Jersey City, where they took the cars for Orange. On arriving at their destination they were welcomed by the villagers, after which they made quite an extended march through the place, and were dismissed for a brief season at the Orange Hotel. Here a fine dinner was served, at which speeches were made by Col. Raynor, Sergeant Mackay, Mesers, Mc-Creary, Woodward, and others. The Company returned home late in the afternoon, and procee through Broadway and other streets, attracting the nenal abare of attention.

MURDER OF A WOMAN BY HER SON .-- On Tuesday, Coroner Jackman held an inquest upon the body of an Irish woman named Cromie, aged 44. The evidence before the Jury went to show that her son, Edward Cromie, returning home after an absence of five years, went on a tour of the city a fortnight since, and returned to his home in a state of intoxication. Some words from the mother gave rise to an angry answer, and thence store a quarrel, in which the drunken son resorted to blows. He threw his mother down, struck her, and stamped upon her with his heel when down. So says the evidence. His sister, who was drawn to the scene by the cries of her mother, vainly endeavored to persuade her brother to desist. But the unnatural, brutal, drunken son pursued his murderous course until be had disfigured his mother's face and dislocated ber jaw. She was removed to the Bellevue Hospital, where she died on Monday night.

where she died on Monday night.

Street Commissionaires.—A correspondent of a contemporary sheet suggests that unemployed mea would do well to engage themselves as Commissionaires, whose duty it should be to show persons about the city of New York. The idea is borrowed from the European practice. The Commissionaires of London, however, (a recept institution), are of more extensive utility than those on the continent, and their introduction would be a great advantage to this city in many ways. The Commissionaire wears a green uniform and a forage cap—in fact, save in the color of his dress, he resembles one of the police of New York. He is not only entrusted to guide strangers about the town, but he runs of errands, conveys parcels, and is often entrusted with large sums of money to take to and from the banks. The penny-post, in agreat measure, superseded the ticket-porters, who were for the most part slow old drenes, but it has not enabled the public to dispense with the services of active, intelligent, trustworthy young men. The London Commissionaires are almost all discharged soldiers, many of them having but one arm. They have been organized by a committee who are responsible to the public for their integrity. They usually stand at the corners of great streets that the public may know where to find them. They are allowed to charge no more than three pence (six cents) per mile, or one shilling English per hour; but persons who entrust them with parcels of value, or who tax their speed considerably, may give them as much more as they please. In this city the difficulty would lie in obtaining the requisite guaranty. Penhaps some enterprising individual might be disposed to take the matter in band, and form a corps of reliable messengers upon his own responsibility, paving them weekly salaries, and requiring them to hand over their daily earnings.

WRONGLY ACCUSED AND SUSPECTED .- On Sater-WRONGLY ACCUSED AND SUSPECTED.—On Saterday last, June 6th, Rollire A. Goodenough, jr., a medical student in the office of Drs. Sayre and Jones. No. 785 Broadway, was brought before me charged with grand larceny on complaint of Dr. E. L. Jones, with having stole some $300 from the safe in the office. Upon a fall investigation of the facts connected with this case it has been clearly proved that said Goodenough was entirely innocent of the charge. I have, therefore, this day honorably discharged him from custody and dismissed the complaint. Signed,

MICHAEL CONNELLY, Police Justice,

New-York, June 12, 1860.
